

made the arrest. The complaint was sworn to by Wagoner, M. J. Dunne, Helms, Johnson, of 115 Hamilton avenue, signed the bail bonds of Capt. Andersen and his men, and they were released.

"Can't you set the examination down for an earlier day than Monday?" asked Capt. Andersen. "We want to go to Chicago on Saturday."

"No," said Justice Tigue. "You brought this trouble on yourselves. You be here on Monday next or forfeit your bonds."

It was said that the policeman who made the arrest is going on his vacation and an earlier examination would inconvenience him.

It was later said that the names of the policeman who distinguished themselves in this affair are William R. Tate, Sgt. McMahon and Officer Dugan.

Capt. Andersen was seen by an "Evening World" reporter at the City Hall in this city this morning. While evidently smarting under the gross indignity to which he and his men had been subjected, he spoke calmly and deliberately and not in the heat of passion.

He declared that the arrest was not only uncalculated for, but was also an outrage, and had been attended with personal as well as physical abuse of himself and his crew.

He also said that he would certainly see Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, and demand justice.

"I was coming down Hamilton avenue," said Capt. Andersen, "and was walking with a Norwegian gentleman and lady. The members of my crew were walking down the street on the other side."

"All of a sudden my attention was called to an altercation between the crew and a crowd of roughs, who were following them, and I saw one of the crew run up and strike one of the crowd on the back of the head."

"That was more than I could stand, and I ran across the street and gave chase to the fellow, followed by my crew."

"The fellow got away, and before I knew what had happened two policemen came up and arrested me. One of them, whom I learned was No. 22, used his club on me. My crew wanted to interfere, but I said no, we wouldn't have a row, and all six of us were bundled into a patrol wagon and taken to a station-house."

"There I protested to the sergeant, but he wouldn't listen to me, and we were locked up, three in a cell. Our friends got bail for us, but it was refused."

"None of us had drunk anything since midnight, and at the banquet room being but clear, so you can judge whether we were intoxicated."

First Mate Gunderson, of the Viking, said to the reporter:

"I called at the police station early this morning and asked to see the captain, but the sergeant refused me permission, and said:

"You fellows think because you're members of a well crew you can do anything you please, but you can't see."

"At the Police Court I asked the Captain if there wasn't anything I could do, and one of the policemen interfered, telling me to 'sit down, and shut up!'"

"I've been a seafaring man for many years, but in all my experience I never saw sailors treated so brutally as we were."

Capt. Andersen and our man by these Brooklyn policemen."

RECEIVED BY THE MAYOR.

The Vikings Get a Hearty Welcome at the City Hall.

On account of their detention in cells all night and in the police court this morning the Vikings came very near missing the reception arranged in their honor by Mayor Boody.

The reception was set down for 11 o'clock, but Capt. Andersen and his sturdy crew, who had weathered worse storms, got over from Brooklyn in time. They went to the Astor House first and "spruced up" a little, and when they presented themselves before the Mayor they looked none the worse for their unpleasant experience.

A large crowd assembled in the Governor's room of the City Hall to shake hands with the Norse sailors. They were drawn up in line, like soldiers for a review, and everybody had a good look at them.

There were twelve of the hardy sailors. Capt. Magnus Andersen, his wife and nine of the crew. A better looking and healthier set of men never sailed a ship.

The crew was accompanied by Prof. H. E. Boyesen and the Swedish Reception Committee, who have been looking after the visitors and showing them the sights.

The first to be introduced to them was Joseph H. Choate, who expressed his admiration over their fine appearance. With such a crew he told Capt. Andersen he would not be afraid to sail the sea in any craft.

Mayor Boody arrived at 11:15 and was formally introduced to Capt. Andersen by Secretary Randall, of the Reception Committee. The Mayor's crew saluted the Mayor, who addressed them briefly, saying:

"In bringing the Norsemen to the Atlantic and coming to these shores in the quaint little ship have made a deep impression upon the American people, and I hope you will be somewhat compensated by the pleasures and comforts you will receive at the hands of our people."

"I hope you will be impressed with the greatness and prosperity of this country, to which your people have contributed so much."

The Mayor then assured Capt. Andersen and the others of the Vikings' crew that every hospitality would be extended to them while they stay in New York enjoyable.

He then shook hands with each of the sailors, and invited Secretary Randall to call at his office during the day to arrange for some kind of entertainment for the visitors.

The Board of Aldermen, heads of departments and other city officials assisted the Mayor in the reception. Among the officials were Sheriff Gorman, Register Levy, Aldermen Muh, Bauman, Wand, Owen and Secretary Randall, Police Commissioner Scannell, President McChesney, of the Board of Aldermen; Police Commissioner Sheehan, Park Commissioner Taggart and Public Works Commissioner Dwyer.

After the reception in the City Hall, the members of the crew visited the Pulitzer building and viewed the city and harbor from the dome.

DIVORCE FOR BARON BLANC.

Justice Beach to-day gave Frederick N. Blanc a decree of absolute divorce from the Baroness Elizabeth Lawrence Blanc.

The decree was granted upon the report of Referee Edward C. Perkins. The couple were married on July 5, 1887, at St. George's Church.

ARTIST GIBNEY'S WIFE ASKED ALIMONY. Lawyer George J. Orr today asked to Judge Van Wyck for alimony and counsel for a suit for separation brought by Elizabeth Gibney against Arthur Gibney, music artist of the Rio Hotel Palace at Ocean Park.

Gibney put in an affidavit claiming his charge of cruelty, and alleging that she is a drunkard woman, and that she has been in the drug business and sold out to go away, but a friend advised me to take Hood's Pills once a day.

BIGLIN AND SON REMANDED.

Victor Herdling Is Thought to Have a Fractured Skull.

He Was Once Connected with a False Identification.

James H. Biglin and his seventeen-year-old son, Morgan, were arraigned in the Harlem Police Court this morning and remanded for examination this afternoon on a charge of felonious assault.

The senior Biglin is a brother of "Barney" Biglin, the politician, and lives with his family on the third floor of 111 East One Hundred and Eighth street.

The fight, which resulted in the arrest of the Biglins, occurred last night in the private hallway of the flat.

Their victim is Victor Herdling, twenty-two years old, who is said to be a son of George Herdling, proprietor of the United States Hotel, at Pearl and Fulton streets, and the recent non-in-law of Biglin.

The story told by the elder Biglin is to the effect that on Aug. 18, last, Herdling induced his (Biglin's) daughter, May, aged eighteen, to elope with him, and married her in Hoboken under the name of George Herling.

A short time subsequently he deserted her. She was then secured employment in the country and has since supported herself.

Herdling was added to drink, and when under the influence of liquor he frequently called at the Biglin flat and annoyed the family.

Last night he called and asked if the family had received any news from May, whereupon the father handed him a letter, which he folded up and tucked away in his pocket.

Biglin demanded the letter, which Herdling refused to give up, and a quarrel ensued, during which Biglin struck Herdling on the forehead with a bluegown, knocking him senseless, and, it is thought, fractured his skull.

The neighbors were aroused by the noise and called in Policeman Murphy, who found young Morgan Biglin with Herdling in his arms, just about to enter the apartments of Mrs. Reese, on the second floor.

The young man said he found the man lying unconscious in the hallway, but the blood stains on the stairs caused him to believe that the man was dead, and he placed the young man under arrest.

An ambulance was summoned and Herdling was sent to the Presbyterian Hospital. He was unable to appear in court this morning.

The elder Biglin was found in an adjoining flat, and father and son were locked up over night in the East Eighty-eighth street station-house.

Herdling, according to young Biglin, was a married man when he married May, and his former wife and two children are still living.

Herdling was mixed up in the false identification of the beautiful young woman, supposed at first to be Dolly Davis, who committed suicide at Tarrytown in June, 1902.

He claimed to be Frank Atwood, and was locked up in jail for his false story. On June 2, 1902, a woman called at the West Thirty-seventh street police station and asked Capt. Cross if the police had any knowledge of her husband, Victor Herdling.

She said she was a milliner and worked in a store, leaving her girl at her room in West Thirty-fifth street.

At the Police Court I asked the Captain if there wasn't anything I could do, and one of the policemen interfered, telling me to "sit down, and shut up!"

I've been a seafaring man for many years, but in all my experience I never saw sailors treated so brutally as we were."

Capt. Andersen and our man by these Brooklyn policemen."

RECEIVED BY THE MAYOR.

The Vikings Get a Hearty Welcome at the City Hall.

On account of their detention in cells all night and in the police court this morning the Vikings came very near missing the reception arranged in their honor by Mayor Boody.

The reception was set down for 11 o'clock, but Capt. Andersen and his sturdy crew, who had weathered worse storms, got over from Brooklyn in time. They went to the Astor House first and "spruced up" a little, and when they presented themselves before the Mayor they looked none the worse for their unpleasant experience.

A large crowd assembled in the Governor's room of the City Hall to shake hands with the Norse sailors. They were drawn up in line, like soldiers for a review, and everybody had a good look at them.

There were twelve of the hardy sailors. Capt. Magnus Andersen, his wife and nine of the crew. A better looking and healthier set of men never sailed a ship.

The crew was accompanied by Prof. H. E. Boyesen and the Swedish Reception Committee, who have been looking after the visitors and showing them the sights.

The first to be introduced to them was Joseph H. Choate, who expressed his admiration over their fine appearance. With such a crew he told Capt. Andersen he would not be afraid to sail the sea in any craft.

TANNER'S HORSEBACK RIDE.

He Proposes to Go Around the World on a Bronco.

A Modest Young Cowboy and His Ambitious Undertaking.

R. J. Tanner, a roving cowboy from Lincoln, Neb., will mount his buckskin bronco Gip at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning in front of the Pulitzer Building to start around the world on horseback.

In June, 1895, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

On June 18, he expects to ride along Park Row to exactly the same spot, and then lay claim to being a globe-trotter in the literal sense of the term.

B. Altman & Co.

TUESDAY. 3d floor.

Silk Covered Sofa Pillows, $1.50.

Silk Embroidered Table Covers, $2.45.

LITTLE HUMIDITY TO-DAY.

Consequently, Though Warm, It Is Not Very Unpleasant.

Only 80 Degrees Registered at 1 O'Clock This Morning.

Although heat started out to make today the most oppressive of the year, its old side-partner, humidity, became ashamed with remorse early in the morning, and, while the mercury climbed up towards the nineties, the air was wonderfully dry, and, consequently, life was worth the living, although the heat made existence just a little bit tiresome.

Farmer Dunn was well satisfied with the day, however, and said that any one who was kicking about it would not be satisfied with a seat in the heaven to which all truthful forecasters go.

"It's getting to be the time of year for hot weather," he said, "and as long as humidity treats us as nicely as it is doing to-day, every one should be satisfied."

According to Mr. Dunn's map, which is said to be made by soaking fish in ink and then turning them loose on the country, except in the extreme Northwest, where, at Roseburg, Oregon, for instance, there was frost last night, and at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 76 degrees, and at 10 o'clock 80 degrees.

In New York at 8 o'clock the thermometer on top of the Equitable Building registered 76 degrees, and at 10 o'clock 80 degrees. Mr. Dunn said the mercury would get up into the nineties before evening. The humidity was 75 per cent.

At Hudson's the thermometer registered 84 degrees at 11 o'clock, and 82 degrees at 12 o'clock.

At Perry's the mercury had risen to 84 degrees at noon, and was up two notches further in the next hour.

NO INQUIRY FOR MULRENNIN.

The Bridge Builders' Body Lies Unclaimed at the Morgue.

The body of John Mulrennin, of Boston, who committed suicide at 7:30 last evening by jumping from the New York tower of the Brooklyn Bridge, was found by the body of the City of New York, 10 feet below, was taken to the Morgue at 12:10 this morning.

Up till noon no word of people went to the Morgue this morning to see the body, but none knew anything of the dead man's name or of his occupation.

It was learned that Mulrennin lived in Boston, where his wife died while up on the tower of the bridge, and that he was a carpenter, before leaving Boston, placed in the hands of the City of New York.

Only six copper pennies were found on the person of Mulrennin.

Up till noon no word of inquiry was received from Boston relative to the dead man, and unless some one claims the body, it will remain in the morgue until buried in Potter's Field Thursday.

MRS. RUMP MISSING.

Went for a Walk in the Park and Has Not Been Seen Since.

Anton Rump, a saloon-keeper, at 225 East Forty-fourth street, called at Police Headquarters this morning and said that his wife, Mrs. Rump, had been missing since June 16, 1903. She is about 40 years of age, has blue eyes, and is 5 feet 6 inches high. She is wearing a black dress, and has a black hat.

He described her as being 5 feet 6 inches high, and wearing a black dress, and has a black hat. He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since.

He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since. He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since.

He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since. He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since.

He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since. He said that she was last seen on June 16, 1903, and that he has not seen her since.

EUGENE P. PEYSER.

123-125 Fulton St. 383 BROADWAY, Near Nassau St. Near White St.

Last Chance of Our Closing-Out Purchase.

Messrs. Hamerslough, Saks & Co., Alfred Benjamin & Co., anxious to sell their fine goods, we purchased a large variety, and the balance must be sold now.

WILL RETAIL AT LESS THAN WHOLESALE COST.

Balance of our $20, $22 & $25 Suits, Blue and Black Serges, Silk lined and Skeleton Silk lined, also English Whipcord, Finest Scotch Silk lined Cheviots, Tweeds, Etc., all go for $14.80.

Cheviot Coats and Vests, Black, Gray and Blues, $3.95. Pants to match, $2.65. Tennis Suits, $10.00 grade, $6.90. White Duck Trousers, $1.20. White Flannel Trousers, $2.50. Tennis and Bicycle Caps, .45, .74 & .89.

Serge Coats & Vests, Blue, Black and Gray, all wool, $6.40 & $8.40. 400 Flannel Tennis Suits, worth $6.00, $2.99. Sweaters, 12 pound Worsted, $1.89.

AT BOTH STORES.

EUGENE P. PEYSER.

383 BROADWAY, 123-125 Fulton St. Near White St. Near Nassau St.

FREE MEDICAL.

SHIPPING NEWS.

CLERK HALL ACTS AS JUDGE.

Refuses an Order for Stolen Cycles in Judge Cowing's Absence.

Frank Ray, manager of the bicycle line of Gurney & Jeffrey, Broadway and Fifty-seventh street, appeared in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions to-day with Policeman James Sharkey, of the Twenty-second street station, and demanded that the officer be directed by the Court to put him in possession of two safety bicycles that were stolen from the line by Ernest Weller, the sixteen-year-old boy who was sent to the Reformatory for stealing bicycles.

Mr. Ray looked discontented and unhappy when he left the court-room.

EXCISE COMMISSIONERS MUST DECIDE.

Justice Outlin, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning handed down an order directing Excise Commissioners Hodges, Cahill and Schuchman, of Brooklyn, to take a decision on the matter of the application of David E. Gibbs for a license to run a liquor saloon at 220 Myrtle avenue, in the vicinity of the proposed saloon at a Washington Park and Myrtle avenue, the most aristocratic portion of the city. A petition for the granting of this license was signed by many of the prominent residents of the neighborhood.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. CLARENCE DILL.

Susan Dill was granted a decree of absolute divorce from her husband, Clarence Dill, by Judge Van Wyck, in the City Court, Brooklyn, to-day. Dill must pay $5 a week alimony.

Weather Forecast.

Local forecast for thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Tuesday: Fair, stationary temperature; winds mainly northwesterly.

ENRICH BROS.

Tremendous Reductions IN JAPANESE WARE.

1,000 articles, comprising

Tokio Chocolate Pots, Tokio Milk Pitchers, Awadji Vases, Kiehin Lily Holders, Satsuma Cracker Jars.

AT 49c EACH.

This lot will probably last until 11 o'clock.

2,200 pieces, comprising

Tokenabi and Gold Vases, Satsuma Wide-Body Vases, Owari Flower Vases, Taiwan Vari-Colored Bottles, Awadji Flower Vases, Tokio Corrugated Water Pitchers, 9-inch Sedji Cracker Jars, 6-inch Covered Dishes, Gravy Dishes and Tray, Sedji Dishes, covered.

AT 98c EACH.

275 4-fold assorted Colored Paper Screens, 4 1/2 foot. $1.45. 530 4-fold assorted Colored Paper Screens, 5 1/2 foot. 1.95. 600 4-fold Black Cloth, heavy non-tarnishable Gold Emb'd Screens, 4 1/2 foot. 2.69. 400 5 1/2 foot. 3.95.

35 other varieties at proportionately low prices.

India Seta, in all colors, reduced to former price $6.50 each. 3.50.

Rattan Chairs, Bamboo Tables, Stools, Music Sticks, Etc., &c. Embroideries, Scarfs, Drapery Materials, &c.

500 8-inch Frilled Inari plates, value 25c. 250 large blue and white Sugar and Cream Sets, value 80c. 600 8-pint teapots, value 35c. 180 6-inch Pitchers, fine Tokio Decorations, value 45c. 400 Banko Napkin Ring and Stand, value 90c.

AT 10c EACH.

2,000 Assorted Articles, in Match Boxes, Ash Trays, Vases, Puff Boxes, Waste Baskets, Lacquer Trays, &c., values from 20c. to 90c. each.

10,000 Assorted Articles direct from the Orient at proportionately low prices.

A Souvenir given to every visitor quite free.

Sixth Avenue and 23d Street.

INTELLIGENCE OF BIRDS.

They Made a Cat Drop Its Prey and Retain It.

HE SPOKE PLAIN ENGLISH.